CHILDREN SAVED FROM FIRE

Two Little Children Locked in Hotel Room Have Narrow Escape From Death

WERE OVERCOME BY SMOKE

Boy of Four Years Lights Matches to See
What Was the Matter With His 18
Months Old Sister

Only the heroic work of two men in the Fredrick's hotel, Waukegan, Tuesday morning averted what might have been the cause of two lives and a serious conflagration.

About seven o'clock the bartender of the hotel was awakened by the sound of children crying in the room next to his. He had been working late the night before and was hardly awake enough to realize that the smell of smoke that came to him was from a fire in the next room. As soon as he was fully awake he rushed out into the corridor in his bare feet, to find out what the fire was, thinking that it might be in the hall below.

He soon found that the smoke was pouring out of the room next to his, and knowing there were two children in that room, he tried to open the door. But the mother, before leaving the children, had locked the door so that the children would not upon awaking leave the room and fall down the stairs.

The children in the room were Tony Sladic, aged four years, and Bessie, aged 18 months. Their mother, Annie Sladic, is employed as a waitress in the hotel and had risen about 6 o'clock in the morning, leaving the children asleep.

The hotel bartender, to whom these two children owe their lives, told the story of the fire.

He said: "I was sleeping in the next room to the one occupied by the Sladic family when I was awakened by the sound of children crying and beating on the door. At first I did not pay much attention to their cries, but soon I smelled smoke and then I rushed from my room only to find smoke rolling out of their room. I tried to open the door but it was locked, and I grabbed the first thing I could lay my hands on to break open the door, and in so doing I stepped on the key which had fallen from the door in some manner.

"Unlocking the door with the key, I was nearly suffocated by the smoke that rolled out, but as soon as I could I rushed in to see if I could get the children out. I stepped on the boy, Tony, with my bare feet, and picking him up I passed him out to William Haar of the Waukegan theater, who had been awakened by my shouts for help.

"As soon as he was out of my hands I tried to find the baby in the bed, but she was nowhere to be found. Finally, when the smoke had cleared, I opened the window and, when most of the smoke had blown out, one of the guests found the baby wrapped up in the bed clothes at the foot of the bed. She was passed out and then all turned in to put out the fire.

"Nearly all the guests had by this time arrived at the scene of the fire, bringing blankets, bedclothes, pitchers of water. The fire was extinguished without any trouble, and outside the loss of bedding and a few burned toes there was little loss."

The boy when asked as to what he had done to start it, said that the baby had cried and he lit a match to find out what the matter was and had dropped it on the bed.

BERL HOYT BECOMES A BENEDICK

Berl Hoyt, only son of A. Hoyt, formerly a merchant at this place, was on Tuesday of this week united in marriage to Miss Leone Olp of Springfield, Wis., at the home of the bride's parents in that village, Rev. Woodward of Lyons, officiating.

After a few days' visit with relatives at Chetek, Wis., Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt will go to Tocoma, Wash., where they will make their future home.

Mr. and Mrs. John VanPatten who are visiting here attended the wedding returning to this place Tuesday evening.

MILLER HAS A RECORD Foreman of Ice House at Lake Elizabeth Father of Eighteen Children

John Miller, a foreman at an ice house at Lake Elizabeth at Twin Lakes has the honor of being the first man in Kenosha county to have a real Roosevelt family and within the past few days Mr. Miller and his good wife have received letters from former president Theodore Roosevelt congratulating them on the arrival of their last son. In addition to the former president and advocate of anti-race suicide and the strenuous life has forwarded to the youngest son a little present which comes as an acknowledgment that the twentieth member of the Miller family has been named for the former president. Theodore Roosevelt Miller is just past two months old and he is just as lively as any of the other seventeen children in the Miller family. Mr. Miller and his record breaking family of eighteen children formerly lived in the town of Salem but he recently removed to the town of Randall. Mr. and Mrs. Miller are now advancing to middle age and every one of the eighteen children have always been decidedly healthy and outside of the visit of the stork to the Miller home there has been little call for services of physician.

The Millers family is one of the big features of the western part of Kenosha county and the Miller family was about the only exhibit that the county had at the recent state fair in Milwaukee. Salem and Randall people like to joke with Miller over his family but he is proud of the distinction and one of the funny stories told about the family was told by Miller himself. He marched up to the state fair with his eighteen youngsters the last arrival his "Teddy" being carried by his mother. As he approached the gates he spoke to the gateman and told him he had eighteen children and expected a reduced rate for such wholesale business and was immediately passed through the gates. The next place that the family visited was a pavilion where there was a famous Durham bull on exhibition and Miller walked up to the entrance and proudly displayed his family. "Eighteen children did you say?" was the comment of the man in charge. "You don't need any tickets to see this show," continued the man "you and your eighteen just stand right there where you are and we will bring the Durham bull out and let it have a look at you."

Mr. and Mrs. Miller are showing the proper American spirit and all of their children are being given as good an education as the schools of the county will afford.

LAUNCHES NEW INDUSTRY

Frank T. Fowler and Others Start Plant to Manufacture Powdered Milk.

Frank T. Fowler's powdered milk plant is to be built near Sycamore, according to an Elgin paper which says: When Gail Borden invented condensed milk and started to can it in a little plant then running on the east side, the people thought that the limit of perfection in that line had been reached. But now comes a Chicago firm with an invention known as powdered milk.

The promoters have made frequent trips to Elgin but found that about all of the product of the cow in that immediate section is taken, and being unable to secure contracts there they decided to locate at Sycamore.

The firm is known as the National Dry Products Company and it is putting several hundred dollars in a small plant there for the manufacture of powdered milk.

The company will occupy a part of the creamery plant of the Murphy & Company Creamery and will receive their milk from them. They expect to have the plant in operation within a week or two at least, and if it proves a success a large plant will be erected for its manufacture.

The milk goes through a process that reduces it to a powder and it is placed in cans in that form and it is claimed can be changed to natural milk again by adding water.

This product is said to be imperishable and no one need be afraid to come to the table with sour milk for coffee while they have a supply of this on hand. It is claimed that it will stand all kinds of weather without turning sour, and that after passing through this process there is no chance for germs of any kind to linger in it. After the milk goes into the dryer there is no chance for it to lose any of the fat and those who buy powdered milk will have a product that will contain all its natural richness.

A NEW CLEVER FORGER

Waukegan Merchants Are Worked by Smooth Artist
Who Escapes

ARE WORKED FOR $30.50

Checks Were Drawn on First National Bank and Signed by J. K. Orvis are Proved Forgeries

Another clever check forger visited the city of Waukegan in search of victims Monday night. On that evening a man stepped into a clothing store and asked to look at some suitcases. The proprietor was alone in the store and stepped to a pile of cases showing the man all that he had in stock.

The purchaser finally selected one the price of which was $5.50 and in payment tendered the dealer a check for $15.50 on the First National Bank of Waukegan and ordered the suit case sent to 522 Marion street where he claimed to live.

The store keeper gave him the ten dollars in change, and no doubt as to the validity of the check entered his mind until one of the clerks went to deliver the case and was told that no one by the name of Murray lived there.

The check was made payable to J. A. Murray and was signed by J. K. Orvis. It was in the current form in use by the First National and the signature had all the appearance of being genuine.

The proprietor of the store said "the man looked so much like Robert Murray that I was thrown off my guard. He was about thirty-five years of age and was the most innocent looking crook I ever saw."

Proceeding up the street the forger decided that while he was about it he might as well make a larger haul and accordingly stopped at the Central Drug store where he followed practically the same scheme, purchasing toilet articles to the extent of about two dollars taking them with him. The check he tendered there was for $15.00 and was made out and signed the same as the other. At this place they did not suspect the worthlessness of the check until told of it by the other victim.

BURNED BY EXPLOSION OF GASOLINE STOVE

Last Saturday afternoon Mrs. Geo. Landry was quite badly burned about the face neck and arms when a gasoline stove upon which she was cooking a meal exploded completely enveloping her in flames. Fortunately her mother who resides at the Landry home was near by and grabbing the portiers she threw them about her daughter extinguishing the flames, and although the burns she received are quite severe they are happily not fatal and her early recovery is looked forward to.

Considerable damage was done by the explosion and it was only by the prompt assistance rendered by the neighbors that the flames were extinguished.

Mr. and Mrs. Landry were residents of Antioch for a number of years but having sold their home here they moved to Russell to reside about a month ago.

MANY CHANGES MADE AT M. E. CONFERENCE

The annual session of the Rock River conference at Dixon, Ill., closed Tuesday afternoon with the making of the various appointments. Those of the most direct interest to our readers being as follows.

Rev. A. O. Stixrud has been assigned to Antioch and Hickory while F. R. McNamara pastor of the Antioch M. E. church for the past five years has been transferred to Prophetstown.

W. J. Arnold has been assigned to Lake Villa, W. A. Gable to Grayslake and Warren, W. L. Whipple to Libertyville and G. E. Mangum to Rosecrans.

Rev. Nixon who is leaving Lake Villa has been transferred to the Iowa conference. Clyde L. Hay a former pastor of Lake Villa is now located at Ottawa, Rev. E. J. Aikin was again returned to Waterman, and W. B. Doble also a former pastor here is now located at Sterling.

AUTO ACCIDENT IS FATAL

Henry Paulson, of Chicago
Ditches Car at Lake Villa
Enroute to Lakes

MRS. PAULSON IS KILLED

Inquest Was Held Sunday Evening and a Verdict of Accidental Death
Was Rendered

One more name was added to the list of fatalities of automobile accidents Sunday afternoon when Mrs. Henry Paulson died from injuries received the preceding afternoon when the machine in which she was riding turned turtle just south of Lake Villa.

Mr. Paulsen, a jewelry supplies dealer who resides at 3751 West Irving Park boulevard, Chicago, together with an auto party consisting of his wife, Harry Buttwin her brother, and Catherine Dougherty, her niece were enroute to the Paulson summer home at Channel lake for a few days stay. Mr. Paulson who was driving, feeling secure in his knowledge of the road by reason of having made the trip many times this summer, was speeding at the rate of about forty miles an hour and had reached a place just a few rods north of the Manzer farm at Lake Villa when suddenly the machine skidded hung for a moment on the edge of the four foot embankment and then tumbled to the bottom of the incline hurling its occupants with force to the ground.

As soon as Mr. Paulson could get up he ran to the side of his wife who was lying inert at the bottom of the embankment. His cries soon brought aid and the injured woman was taken to the Manzer home and a physician was hastily summoned. Upon his arrival he found that she was suffering from a concussion of the brain and that her recovery was impossible, although she lived until the next afternoon. The other occupants of the car were uninjured with the exception of a few minor bruises.

Miss Dougherty in speaking of the accident said "I can't see how any of us got out alive. We were traveling at a high rate of speed, and it was too dark to see the ruts in the road. We approached a curve and then ascended a ridge. Suddenly a rut swung the machine from the road and it was immediately beyond the control of the driver. He frantically jerked at the levers as the car hesitated on the edge of the incline, but to no avail. Mrs. Paulson seemed to cling to the machine and it is thought that she struck some part of the car as she was hurled from it."

The inquest was held Sunday evening and a verdict of accidental death was returned. The remains were taken to Chicago Monday morning.

EASTERN STAR HOLDS RECEPTION THURSDAY EVENING

The members of Antioch Chapter, O. E. S., held a farewell reception in their hall last Thursday evening, in honor of their two departing members, Mrs. Geo. Huber who leaves to take up her residence at Los Angeles, Cal., and Mrs. Flora McGhee who returns to her old home at Austin, Ill., after a residence of three years among us.

The evening was very pleasantly spent by all, although regrets at their departure was mingled with the gaieties of the occasion.

During the evening the guests of honor were much surprised when they were each presented with a token of remembrance of their most pleasant associations with the Chapter, Mrs. Huber who has filled several offices since her admission to the order, the past year serving in the capacity of associate conductress was presented with a beautiful Eastern Star pin and Mrs. McGhee was the recipient of a handsome souvenir spoon.

Refreshments were served after which the guests dispensed wishing each of the departing members the best of health and happiness in her chosen location.

THEY DROVE 400 MILES

Frank S. Edwards Writes Interesting Account of Trip from Hickory to Osceola

Editor Antioch News,
Antioch, Ill.

As a 400 mile drive with team and buggy is unusual in this day of fast trains and autos, I thought the readers of the Antioch News would be pleased to read the account of our trip from Hickory, Ill., to Osceola, Iowa, the distance being driven in ten days.

On Monday evening, Sept. 5, 1910, Ernest Garrett and myself started on our trip, driving to Grayslake that evening and staying at my uncle's all night. At 7:45 Tuesday morning we started on our journey and drove to Huntley where we put up for the night. The following day we drove through a great dairy country where nearly all the farmers have from forty to fifty milch cows, all Holsteins. We stopped that night at a farm house west of Genoa.

Were off early next morning and unaware drove through the only pine tree forest in the state of Illinois, covering the bluffs of the Rock river, a beautiful stream with ledges of lime stone rock from 15 to 30 feet high of one side with a fine scene of other trees and small pines on the bottoms covered with blue grass. Friday we drove through Polo and Sterling and stopped for the night at Morrison.

Saturday morning at 9:30 we drove on the bridge at Clinton spanning the Mississippi river. It took us twenty minutes to cross with the team walking. The bridge is 80 feet above the high water mark, therefore 130 feet above low water. We drove over the tops of trees so were at least 100 feet above the ground and still higher above the water.

We stopped over night at a small town on the river called Pleasant Valley and intended to remain over Sunday but as the whole town was on a drunk that night and we could get nothing to eat at the hotel we drove a distance of ten miles to Davenport and stayed there till Monday morning.

It rained Sunday night so had muddy roads to travel on Monday but still we drove forty-two miles, going through Muscatine and stopping at Letts for the night.

Tuesday we passed a forty acre patch of watermelons where they were feeding them to the stock by the wagon load. Of course, we saved one from a similar fate. We stopped at a farm house near Olds and Wednesday drove through Fairfield to Ottumwa arriving there at 7:45.

The next morning we hit the old Mormon trail for Chariton and arrived there at 10:30 Friday morning. At 5:00 o'clock in the afternoon we stopped at Woodburn to feed and water our horses then drove into Osceola, arriving at our journey's end at 10:30 in the evening. Thus ends our story.

We saw plenty of good corn on the way and after we crossed the line into Iowa there was much wheat being sown. The roads were in good condition and it would be hard to find a more prosperous country than that through which we passed.

Frank G. Edwards,
Osceola, Iowa.

DROWNED AT EAGLE LAKE

Charles Sanborn, Formerly of this Place,
Meets Untimely Death

Monday evening Mr. Jacob Savage received a telegram announcing the fact that his grandson Charlie Sanborn had met his death by accidental drowning in the waters of Eagle Lake, Wis.

The deceased, a young man 23 years of age, was a former Antioch boy, having lived here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Sanborn, a few years ago. Leaving Antioch the family located at Rockfeller where they lived until a few weeks ago when they moved to Eagle Lake to reside.

Sunday afternoon a party consisting of young Sanborn, his brother-in-law Robert Simmons and a friend were out duck hunting when their boat was in some unknown manner capsized. Sanborn was unable to reach the boat and sank, his body not being recovered until the next day. His companions managed to save themselves by clinging to the overturned boat.

The remains were shipped to Winthrop Harbor Tuesday evening and the funeral was held from the North Prairie church Wednesday afternoon at 1:00 o'clock with burial at Hickory.

He is survived by his father and mother and one sister, Mrs. Robert Simmons, of Eagle Lake, Wis.

SUMMER RESORTERS ORGANIZE

Co-Operative Store With Motorboat Delivery Planned
by New League

COMPLAIN OF HIGH PRICES

Will Demand Better Roads and Also That
Scheel Tax Money be Spent on Making Good Roads

The Waukegan Sun of Wednesday has the following which will be of interest to the merchants of Antioch:

Property owners around Lake Catherine, Channel Lake, Lake Marie and Bluff Lake, all near Antioch, have completed plans for a protective association of summer resorters, one of the features of which will be the establishment near Antioch of a co-operative store, for members, orders from which will be delivered by the novel means of motor boats.

The organization is to be launched formally at a meeting and banquet to be held in Chicago at a date to be made later. Among Chicagoans in the district are O. W. Richardson, Willis M. Baldwin of Standard Oil, Henry Paulson, Dr. Venn and William and John Ayling. There are scores of others. County Treasurer Fred Ames of Lake county, residing at Waukegan, is a leader in the movement.

The co-operative store is planned mainly to afford summer resorters cheaper rates on all kinds of merchandise and supplies and to guarantee prompt delivery, the kick being that stores at the lakes charge prices too high and are not speedy enough at delivering.

The league will probably be named the Four Lakes Property Owners' Protective Association, and will among other objects stand for the following:

Good roads in vicinity of lake summer resorts.
The dredging out and marking with lights and signals of channels between the lakes. The cleaning of shores. The connection with deeper and wider channels of the four lakes named with Fox Lake and the rest of the chain in western Lake county.

Better train service between Chicago and the lakes, the railroad station of which is Antioch.

The application of school tax money now paid Lake county by non-residents who summer there for good roads. This is to be demanded on the plea that the resorters do not send their children to the Lake county schools at all, being at the lakes only for the summer months.

The fostering of better feeling of good fellowship between the all-the-year-round inhabitants of the district and the resorters. It is claimed that the "natives" now regard the resorters as their natural foes, when the reverse is the case.

There is an association conducted on a similar plan at Fox Lake and it is believed that the new one will take over this one in a merger after a time.

It is stated that leading members of the committee for organization are now getting an option on an island between Channel Lake and Lake Catherine for a club house.

The roads about the district which is organizing are said to be extremely bad. It is claimed that the scraper was not run over them at all until the last week, for the current year, and that they could not be worse than they are now.

Motor and yacht clubs are to be organized.

An attempt will be made to increase the entente cordiale between the village of Antioch and its merchants and people and the resorters. The majority of the resorters are Chicagoans and the district is second only to Fox Lake, although more exclusive.

HENRY LAPARR MARRIED SATURDAY

Saturday October 8, at Chicago occurred the wedding of Miss Katherine Smith of that place to Mr. Henry Laparr of Bluff Lake.

The groom is a well known young man of this vicinity and the bride has many friends here, having spent the past summer at Lake Marie.

After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Laparr will return to Kenosha where they expect to make their future home, the groom having secured a responsible position with the Jeffries auto company in that city.

Their many friends are extending most hearty congratulations to the happy couple.

SYNOPSIS.

Capt. Nathaniel Plum, of the sloop Typhoon, lands secretly on Beaver Island, stronghold of the Mormons. He is suddenly confronted by Obadiah Price, an eccentric old man and a member of the Mormon council, who tells him that he is expected. Price ignores Nat's protestations that he has not the wrong man, and bargains for the ammunition aboard the sloop. He binds Nat by a solemn oath to deliver a package to Franklin Pierce, president of the United States. Near Price's cabin Nat sees the frightened face of a young woman who dampens in the darkness, leaving an odor of lilacs. It develops that Plum's visit to the island is to demand settlement from the king. Strang, for the looting of his ship some time previously, supposedly by Mormons. Casey, the man, has been left in charge of the sloop with orders to deliver to James if Nat does not return within a certain time. Price takes Nat in the darkness, the king's wife, to pursue through a window he sees the king and his wives, among whom is the lady of the lilacs, whom Price says is the seventh wife. Plum calls at the king's office, where he is warned by a young woman that his life is in danger. Strang receives Plum secretly in the king's garden when he hears the captain's grievance, and promises to punish the guilty. Plum again receives warning of his danger. He resolves to kill the king, who is being publicly whipped. The king orders Arthur Croche, the sheriff and father of Winson, the girl who warned Nat, to pursue and kill the two men. Plum and Nell plan to escape on the Typhoon. Plum carries that Marion, the girl of the lilacs, is Nat's sister. She is not yet married to Strang. Plum suggests carrying her off on the ship.

(CHAPTER V—Continued.)

"I am beginning to understand a little," he said. "Obadiah had planned that I should meet Marion, but I was a fool and spoiled his scheme. If I had done as he told me I should have seen her this morning."

In a few words he reviewed the events of the preceding evening and of that morning—of his coming to the island, his meeting with Obadiah, and of the singular way in which he had become interested in Marion. He omitted the oaths but told of Winson's warning and of his interview with the Mormon king. When he spoke of the girl as he had seen her through the king's window, and of her appealing face turned toward him at the jail, his voice trembled with an excitement that deepened the flush in Nell's cheeks.

"Captain Plum, I thank God that you like Marion," he said simply. "After I kill Strang will you help her?"

"Yes."

"You are willing to risk—"

"My life—my men—my ship!"

Nathaniel spoke like one to whom there had been suddenly opened the portals to a great joy. He sprang to his feet and stood before Nell, his whole being throbbing with the emotions which had been awakened within him.

"Good God, why don't you tell me what her peril is?" he cried, no longer restraining himself. "Why are you going to kill Strang? Has he—has he—"

"His face flushed with the question which he dared not finish."

"No—not that!" interrupted Nell. "He has never laid a hand on Marion. She hates him as she hates the wankers in this swamp. And yet—next Sunday she is to become his seventh wife!"

Nathaniel started as if he had been threatened by a blow.

"You mean—he is forcing her into his harem?" he asked.

"No, he can not do that!" exclaimed Nell, the hatred bursting out anew in his face. "He can not force her into marrying him, and yet—"

He flung his arms above his head in sudden passionate despair. "As there is a God in heaven I would give 10 years of my life for the secret of the prophet's power over Marion!"

He groaned. "Three months ago her hatred of him was terrible. She loathed the sight of him. I have seen her shiver at the sound of his voice. When he asked her to become his wife she refused him in words that I had believed no person in the kingdom would have dared to use. Then—less than a month ago—the change came, and one day she told me that she had made up her mind to become Strang's wife. From that day her heart was broken. I was dumbfounded. I raged and cursed and even threatened. Once I accused her of a shameful thing and though I implored her forgiveness a thousand times I know that she weeps over my brutal words still. But nothing could change her. On my knees I have pleaded with her, and once she flung her arms round my shoulders and said, 'Nell, I can not tell you why I am marrying Strang. But I must.' I went to Strang and demanded an explanation. I told him that my sister hated him, that the sight of his face and the sound of his voice filled her with abhorrence, but he only laughed at me and asked me why I objected to becoming his brother-in-law of a prophet. Day by day I have seen Marion's soul dying within her. Some terrible secret is gnawing at her heart, robbing her of the very life which a few weeks ago made her the most beautiful thing on this island; some dreadful influence is shadowing her every step, and as the day draws near when she is to join the king's harem I see in her eyes at times a look that frightens me. There is only one salvation. Tomorrow I shall kill Strang!"

"And then?"

Nell shrugged his shoulders. "I will shoot him through the abdomen so that he will live to tell his wives who did the deed. After that I will try to make my escape to the mainland."

"And Marion—"

"Will not marry Strang! Isn't that plain?"

"You have guessed nothing—no cause for the prophet's power over your sister?" asked Nathaniel.

"Absolutely. And yet that influence is such that at times the thought of it freezes the blood in my veins. It is so great that Strang did not hesitate to throw me into jail on the pretext that I had threatened his life. Marion implored him to spare me the disgrace of a public whipping and he replied by reading to her the commandments of the kingdom. That was last night—when you saw her through the window. Strang is madly infatuated with her beauty and yet he dares to go any length without fear of losing her. She has become his slave. She is completely in his power as though bound in iron chains. And the most terrible thing about it all is that she has constantly urged me to leave the island—to go, and never return. Great God, what does it all mean? I love her more than anything else on earth, we have been inseparable since the day she was able to toddle alone—and yet she would have me leave her! No power on earth can reveal the secret that is torturing her. No power can make Strang divulge it."

"And Obadiah Price!" cried Nathaniel, sudden excitement flashing in his eyes. "Does he know?"

"I believe that he does!" replied Nell, pacing back and forth in his agitation. "Captain Plum, if there is a man on this island who loves Marion with all of a father's devotion it is Obadiah Price, and yet he swears that he knows nothing of the terrible influence which has so suddenly enslaved her to the prophet! He suggests that it may be mesmerism, but—"

"He interrupted himself with a harsh, mirthless laugh. 'Mesmerism be damned! It's not that!'

"Your sister—is a Mormon?" ventured Nathaniel, remembering that the prophet had said to him that morning. "Could it be her faith? a message revealed through Strang from—"

Nell stopped him almost fiercely. "Marion is not a Mormon!" he said. "She hates Mormonism as she hates Strang. I have tried to get her to leave the island with me but she insists on staying because of the old folk. They are very old, Captain Plum, and they believe in the prophet and his heaven as you and I believe in that blue sky up there. The day before I was arrested I begged my sister to flee to the mainland with me but she refused with the words that she had said to me a hundred times before—'Nell, I must marry the prophet!—Don't you see there is nothing to do—but to kill Strang!'

Nathaniel thrust his hand into a pocket of the coat he had loaned Nell and drew forth his pipe and tobacco pouch. As he loaded the pipe he looked squarely into the other's eyes and smiled.

"Nell," he said softly. "Do you know that you would have made an awful fool of yourself if I hadn't have to fight just when I did?"

He lighted his pipe with exasperating coolness, still smiling over its bowl.

"You are not going to kill Strang tomorrow," he added, throwing away the match and placing both hands on Nell's shoulders. "His eyes were laughing with the joy that shone in them. 'Nell, I am ashamed of you! You have worried a devilish lot over a very simple matter. See here—'

He blew a cloud of smoke over the other's head. "I've learned to demand some sort of pay for my services since I landed on this island. Will you promise to be a sort of brother—to me—if I shall Marion and sail away with her tonight?"

CHAPTER VI.

Marion.

At Nathaniel's astonishing words Nell stood as though struck suddenly dumb.

"Don't you see what a very simple case it is?" he continued, enjoying the other's surprised silence. "You plan to kill Strang to keep Marion from marrying him. Well, I will hunt up Marion, put her in a bag if necessary and carry her to my ship. Isn't that better and safer and just as sure as murder?"

The excitement had gone out of Nell's face. The flush slowly faded from his cheeks and in his eyes there gleamed something besides the malevolence of a few moments before. As Nathaniel stepped back from him half laughing and puffing clouds of smoke from his pipe Marion's brother thrust his hands into his pockets with an exclamation that forcefully expressed his appreciation of Captain Plum's scheme.

"I never thought of that," he added, after a moment. "By heaven, it will be easy—"

"So easy that I tell you again I am ashamed of you for not having thought of it!" cried Nathaniel. "The first thing is to get safely aboard my ship."

"We can do that within an hour."

"And tonight—where will we find Marion?"

"At home," said Nell. "We live near Obadiah. You must have seen this house—"

Nathaniel smiled as he thought of his suspicions of the old counselor. "It couldn't be better situated for our work," he said. "Does the forest run down to the lake on Obadiah's side of the island?"

"Clear to the beach."

Nell's face betrayed a sudden flash of doubt.

"I believe that our place has been watched for some time," he explained. "I am sure that it is especially guarded at night and that no person leaves or enters it without the knowledge of Strang. I am certain that Marion is aware of this surveillance although she professes to be wholly ignorant of it. It may cause us trouble."

"Can you reach the house without being observed?"

"After midnight—yes."

"Then there is no cause for alarm," declared Nathaniel. "If necessary I can bring 10 men into the edge of the woods. Two can approach the house as quietly as one and I will go with you. Once there you can tell Marion that your life depends on her accompanying you to Obadiah's. I believe she will go. If she won't—"

He stretched out his arms as if in anticipation of the burden they might hold. "If she won't—I'll help you carry her!"

"And meanwhile," said Nell, "Arthur Croche's men—"

"Will be as dead as herring floaters if they show up!" he cried, leaping two feet off the ground in his enthusiasm. "I've got 12 of the damndest fighters aboard my ship that ever lived and 10 of them will be in the edge of the woods!"

Nell's eyes were shining with some thing that made Nathaniel turn his own to the landing of his pipe.

"Captain Plum, I hope I will be able to repay you for this," he said. There was a trembling break in his voice and for a moment Nathaniel did not look up. His own heart was near bursting with the new life that throbbed within it. When he raised his eyes to his companion's face again there was a light in them that spoke almost as plainly as words.

"You haven't accepted my price, yet, Nell," he replied quietly. "I asked you if you'd be a sort of brother—"

Nell sprang to his side with a fervor that knocked the pipe out of his hand. "I swear that! And if Marion doesn't—"

Suddenly he jerked himself into a listening attitude.

"Hark!"

For a moment the two ceased to breathe. The sound had come to them both, low, distant. After it there fell a brief hush. Then again, as they stared questioningly into each other's eyes, it rolled faintly into the swamp—the deep, low haying of a hound.

"Ah!" exclaimed Nell, drawing back with a deep breath. "I thought they would do it!"

"The bloodhounds!"

DINING OUT WITH FRIENDS

How a Boarding House Romance Began Between Two Homeless Lodgers Who Had No Acquaintance.

Not until boarding houses cease to exist will all their romances be written. Shabby romances, some of them are, like that of the young woman who got so tired of being called "poor thing," because she received no invitations and had to eat all her meals at the boarding house table that she took to calling alone once in awhile at a cheap restaurant; and then, brazenly lying about the friends who had invited her to dinner.

There was a young man in that house who never went anywhere either. The first night the girl stayed out life's desolation nearly overpowered him. "Even that poor little white faced soul has made friends who want her," he said. "Nobody wants me. I'm no good on earth."

Then on rare occasions his place at the table was vacant. "Now friends?" asked the landlady.

"Yes," lied the young man. One night the man and the girl met in a 25-cent restaurant. They blushed, they fawned, they finally confessed. "We're a pair of frauds," said the girl. "It's awful to think that tonight when we go home we will have to swear that we have been dining with friends."

"Well," said the young man, "ain't we?"

Big Harvest From Unredeemed Money

WASHINGTON.—The United States government in fifty years has accumulated $13,000,000 from unredeemed money. A long-standing question, namely: How much does a government make through the failure of its citizens to present its paper for redemption? Is answered fairly accurately for our country in these figures. Export mathematicians in the United States have figured on the problem, and the results they have obtained by different methods are so nearly identical as to lend the layman to feel confident that they have hit somewhere near the mark.

Obviously the difficulties surrounding the statistician wishing to tabulate the gains of the government from this source are almost insurmountable. If accurate figures are what he is looking for. The destruction of paper money of all sorts goes on rapidly throughout the country, yet this loss is never reported to the treasury. So the mathematicians have had to take the complete figures of the government redemption division, and by comparing the average life of notes, the average percentage of actual redemption, and other items of that sort, have been able to work out a fairly accurate percentage of paper money that is either destroyed or is in such hands that it will never reach the treasury for redemption in gold.

Well-known authorities who have worked independently on the subject found, when they compared notes, that they had reached substantially the same result—that of all paper money issued the government escaped payment on from one-tenth of 1 per cent. to about one-half of 1 per cent. This, of course, means that the government makes on the paper money it issues a commission varying between the percentages set forth. The most definite result shows a gain of approximately one-eighth of 1 per cent. a total gain to the government amounting to $13,241,000 since the beginning of our paper money—about half a century ago.

All sorts of causes contribute to increase the amount of paper money that will never be presented for redemption. Fire is perhaps the most important cause, though improved safes and the more general use of safes for holding the cash supply are annually reducing the loss from this cause. Then there is a sort of inertia that money seems to have which keeps it out of the country once it is started in circulation, even though it be of an issue supposed to mature at a given time. Shipwrecks, too, are responsible for some of the loss.

Lastly, there are the collectors, and it is probable that every fairly good collection of United States paper money accounts for at least one piece of every denomination that has failed to come back to the treasury.

Army Wanting in Marching Ability

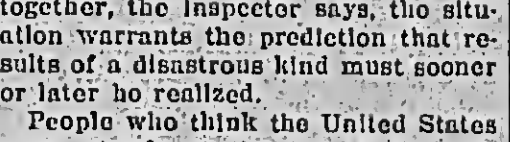

THE United States army has lately undergone a series of stern and severe criticisms. Authorities have studied the existing conditions from every point of view, and in their reports have delivered their opinions in a fearless manner. In a report recently made public one inspector points out the case of a whole battalion of artillery starting out for the Philippines without a single field officer and one of the batteries commanded by a second lieutenant of less than two years' service. In one department alone a third of the line officers were absent from duty with their commands under detail, and altogether, the inspector says, the situation warrants the prediction that results of a disastrous kind must sooner or later be realized.

People who think the United States army stands at the top of the profession would be rudely jarred to learn from Inspector General Ball that the field army is wholly unprepared for field service. He says: "The new regulations are almost entirely theoretical or dependent upon the experience of European armies. Our transportation is the same as at the beginning of the civil war, for our army has so far failed to make use of automobiles, traction engines and other modern appliances in the field. The weaknesses could be quickly developed if the present annual maneuvers could be replaced at least once by the march of a complete army corps. Very few of our officers have ever marched with more than a regiment."

To remedy these conditions, Maj. Gen. Wood, chief of staff, has issued orders which will change materially the training of the army. The inspectors general will be required to submit the troops to an annual inspection in the field, in addition to the present inspection, which is described in some quarters as being little less than an inquiry into the accounts and garrison work of the troops. The new inspection will be designed to show the efficiency of the troops in the theoretical work taught army officers in the various schools and provided for in the various drill regulations.

First Report on Infantile Paralysis

AS a cause of death has been made heretofore, but the increasing importance of the disease and its wide prevalence throughout the country in the form of local epidemics render a statement of the mortality important.

The 569 deaths compiled for the registration area for 1909 were widely distributed, and indicate endemic or epidemic prevalence in many parts of the country. It should be remembered, the bulletin points out, that the census data relate only to registration sources, and that for the non-registration states the deaths are only those returned from the registration cities contained therein.

Pollagra is a new disease in the mortality statistics, the bulletin states. Only 23 deaths were returned from this cause for 1908, and no deaths for any previous year except one for 1904. Such deaths undoubtedly occurred, but were not recognized and were consequently returned as due to other causes or as of unknown cause.

It is reported that of the 569 deaths from infantile paralysis 552 were of white and only 17 of colored persons. The bulletin states that no statistical segregation of infantile paralysis at that degree, at least, weaken his allegiance to this country.

The most noted exception to this rule by congress was the authorization of acceptance by former President Roosevelt of the Nobel peace prize, amounting to about $39,000. Colonel Roosevelt turned this money over to the department of commerce and labor to form the basis of a fund for expenses attending arbitration and the peaceful settlement of disputes between capital and labor. Before granting the authorization in this instance, congress had full knowledge of what was to be done with the money. The prize was awarded to Colonel Roosevelt for his efforts in terminating the war between Russia and Japan.

The action of the house committee arouses new interest in the notable collection of valuable and curious gifts presented by foreigners to official Americans which this government has not authorized acceptance of by Americans and which are now in safekeeping in the national museum and in the state, war and navy departments.

Gifts of Potentates Vex Uncle Sam

HALF a dozen resolutions authorizing acceptance of gifts by American military men and diplomatic officers from foreign rulers were turned down last session by the house committee on foreign affairs. Accompanying the rejection was a report tending to discourage any such efforts in the future.

In strong language the committee pointed out that the provision of the constitution prohibiting the acceptance of such gifts by Americans in official life was drawn wisely by the fathers of the country in the interest of the integrity and perpetuity of the republic. Underlying the prohibition is the thought that those accepting such gifts would be under more or less obligation to the giver, and to

"For years I could not safely eat any breakfast. I tried various kinds of breakfast food, but they were all soft, starchy messes which gave me distressing headaches. I drank strong coffee, too, which appeared to benefit me at the time, but added to the headaches afterwards. Toast and coffee were no better, for I found the toast very constipating."

"A friend persuaded me to quit the old coffee and the starchy breakfast foods, and use Postum and Grape-Nuts instead. I shall never regret taking his advice. I began using them three months ago."

"The change they have worked in me is wonderful. I now have no more of the distressing sensations in my stomach after eating, and I never have headaches. I have gained 12 pounds in weight and feel better in every way."

DID CLEVER WORK

CANADIAN COINERS LONG BAF-FLED AUTHORITIES.Peculiar History of "Blacksmith" Tokens That Are Interesting to Numismatists—Sagan With Nocessity for Small Change.

A good deal has been heard of late years among coin collectors about the so-called "Blacksmith" tokens of Canada. The unsatisfactory condition of the currency in Canada up to comparatively recent times explains the reason for the issue of such coins.

For many years the supply of legal copper coins had been altogether inadequate, so that often anything in the shape of a copper passed current. At the beginning of the nineteenth century the only legal copper circulating medium was an insufficient and diminishing supply of worn out British half pence sent over from England.

A little later this was supplemented by a deluge of imported private tokens. Their overabundance, according to a writer in the Numismatist, soon caused them to be discredited and stringent means were adopted to prevent further importation of such coin into Canada or its manufacture there.

But as the necessity for an adequate supply of small change became more pressing, various ways for evading the blockade were evolved. One of these was by making or importing tokens which bore a date previous to the date of the edict excluding private coins. Another way, which was at one time very prevalent in England, was to evade the counterfeiting laws by suppressing the legends and substituting instead some capricious or meaningless legend, as "Claudius Romanus," "Georgius T. Rex," "George Rules," "Glorius Ier Vis," etc. These spurious coins presented the same general appearance to the ignorant populace as the regal coinage.

A third means, and this is characteristic of the Canadian Blacksmiths, was by counterfeiting the worn British half pence, the only legal copper coins in circulation, on which the date, legend and all but an indistinct outline of the design had been effaced. Although they thus produced a rude coinage these early Canadian coiners showed considerable skill in so making fresh coins bear the appearance of an old worn out but still legal currency that they were able to circulate vast quantities of their spurious imitations. It is worth noting that the designs on these Blacksmiths often face to the opposite direction to their prototypes.

As an explanation of their name the story is told that a blacksmith of disolute habits lived in Montreal and "when he wished to have a 'good time' struck two or three dollars of these coppers and thereby supplied himself with sufficient change to gratify his wishes." The name was adopted by numismatists and applied to the whole series.

Mothers-in-Law in Bethlehem.

Many of the people in Bethlehem emigrate, for they have no fear of travel and make excellent colonists. It is possible to come upon men of Bethlehem in eastern Africa and even in Haiti. Now for the first time I saw the remarkable head-dresses for which the married women of Bethlehem are famous. They are large and entirely conceal the hair. I was told that the foundation is a fez, stiffened and covered with cotton. Chains of silver on which are strung rows of silver coins ornament the front, and a great white veil made of cotton gives the finishing touch. Strongly built and active, the matrons of Bethlehem look very imposing as they go about their affairs, and I should scarcely think they live in great subjection to their husbands. That they make alarming mothers-in-law I can well believe. There is a proverb in Palestine: "Were the mother-in-law to love her daughter-in-law, dogs would go into paradise."—Robert Hichens, in Century.

The Major's Value.

Gen. W. H. Lemon of the Grand Army of the Republic was recounting at a dinner at Lawrence, Kan., tales of the Civil war.

"Major Bunks," he said, smiling, "was a pompous chap. The boys had a good deal of fun once over his ear change."

"It seems that on a very dark night a stalwart confederate took the major prisoner. This fact, together with the narrative of the prisoner's return to camp, was signaled to headquarters tersely."

"Major Bunks, captured during night march, exchanged later for two plugs tobacco."

Missions as a Commercial Investment

Missions are the greatest investment that can be made to bring returns in material as well as spiritual things. The United States holds over one-third of the total banking power of the world; $25,000,000,000 is in the hands of Christians, and $50,000,000 would not be too much to give yearly to spreading the Gospel in the far east. Every missionary sent to the foreign field pays back a thousand fold. There is no trade-opener equal to the Gospel. If boards of trade and chambers of commerce would finance the presentation of the Gospel to heathen lands, it would pay enormously. —Christian Herald.

Generous Official.

To illustrate the attention to duty on the part of officials and their sense of justice, this story was told by a well-known writer: "Last summer I spent several months in a nearby place with my family, and was driven back to New York by the mosquitoes in October. The tax officers, regardless of the fact that I was only a summer guest, sent me a $10,000 personal tax bill; I took the first opportunity to call at the office to protest. The official asked me: 'What is your business?' 'German newspaper man and poet,' I said. Then he put heavy lines across the face of the tax bill, and with a look which betokened his goodness of heart handed me 50 cents."

Author's Bravery in Epidemic.

John Richard Green, author of the well-known history of England, was a parish priest in London in 1880. He took a prominent part in the work of relief when an epidemic killed many people. Mrs. J. R. Green has left on record a typical instance. "On one occasion he found a man dangerously ill in an upper room. Some big drayman in the street refused to help. Green, therefore, tried to carry the man downstairs. His slight frame was unequal to the effort and the two fell from the top to the bottom of the stairs together. The man, who was in a state of collapse, was not injured."

Attention, Dictionary Compiler.

A street preacher was haranguing a miscellaneous audience on one of the prominent street corners of the city. He was talking of eternal punishment, and came to that scriptural passage concerning the bottomless pit. This seemed to call for an unusual amount of eloquent energy. Raising his voice and clapping his hands, he yelled: "And do you know what a bottomless pit is? I dare say some of you do not. Now listen. For the benefit of those who do not know what a bottomless pit is, I am going to tell you. A bottomless pit, my friends, is a pit without a bottom."

No Protection for Seagulls.

Seagulls have increased in numbers so enormously in Devonshire, and have caused so much damage to fish, that the Devon San fisheries committee has passed a resolution in favor of the removal of protection from the birds and their eggs. It was estimated that one gull ate ten fish in twenty-four hours. —Pall Mall Gazette.

Man.

Limited in his nature, infinite in his desires, man is a fallen god who remembers the heavens. —Lamartine.

Power Going to Waste.

It was asserted a few days ago before the Massachusetts gas and electric light commission that within 175 miles of Boston water capable of yielding 800,000-horse power is going to waste.

Moth Eggs.

If you have reason to suspect that moth eggs are hidden in the edges of the carpet saturate the carpet all around the edges with a solution of strong alum water. This, it is said, will effectually destroy moth eggs.

Flyers.

We read in the paper that it takes a month to learn to fly, and costs a thousand dollars, and that aeroplanes cost from $2,500 to $5,000. The same paper tells of a day in Wall street so dull that at times the brokers sat on the floor and told stories. Flyers seem now to be taken in the empyrean, and not, as formerly, in the street. —Harper's Weekly.

FILE PETITION

H. B. Eger of Libertyville and A. K. Stearns of Waukegan and Lake Bluff will appear on the November official ballot as candidates for the Legislature from this, the 8th district, under the heading: "Independent Republican."

The names of the two Lake county men appear in the lists printed in Chicago papers Sunday of men who filed petitions bearing the required number of signers, men who did not vote at the recent primary.

Thus, with Eger and Stearns formally in the field on the stump, it is again a question in the minds of many whether Lake county has a chance to elect a legislator, for, it is felt the both will hurt each other.

Saturday being the last day upon which any candidate to run independent for county offices, it is interesting to note that none filed such a petition in Lake county. There had been reports that there would be candidates for some of the offices, particularly that of county clerk, Hiram Ferry being mentioned as a possibility. However, the day passed and none filed. Now it is too late and the entire tickets as selected on the 16th of September, will be the only ones in the field so far as county officers are concerned.

Forget the Anchor.

Several members of a boat club at Frankfort-on-the-Main recently resolved to row to Mayence by night. It was just 12 o'clock when they started themselves in their boat, grasped their oars, and bade their friends on shore farewell. They pulled vigorously all night, greatly enjoying the healthful exercise, the gloom and quiet, and the weird beauty of the river. Their own chagrin and the wild delight of their friends may be imagined when they found at sunrise they had forgotten to weigh anchor, and were still fast to the float from which they embarked. They are now known to all Frankfort as "the explorers."

A LITTLE TOO PRIMITIVE

Shower Bath Arrangement Something of a Shock to the Participant.

August Belmont, at a dinner in Saratoga, praised the seaside towns of New England.

"But some of them," he added, "are a little too primitive." "I remember a story about the primitive town of Rockford. Rockford had a rough bathing establishment, with a shower bath. You stood in your bathhouse and pulled a rope and a deluge of cool water descended from the ceiling.

"Well, a lady visitor stood one day in her bathhouse, ready for the shower. She pulled the rope and braced herself, but no shower followed. She gave the rope another tug, when the gruff voice of the sailor proprietor of the establishment sounded from aloft: "Stand a bit more to the northeast, mum," it said, "if ye want to get the full force."

"And the horrified lady, looking up, saw the old sailor frowning impatiently through a hole in the ceiling and lifting a barrel of sea water for the shower.

WASTED A FORTUNE ON SKIN TROUBLE

"I began to have an itching over my whole body about seven years ago and this settled in my limbs, from the knee to the toes. I went to see a great many physicians, a matter which cost me a fortune, and after I noticed that I did not get any relief that way, I went for three years to the hospital. But they were unable to help me there, I used all the medicines that I could see but became worse and worse. I had an inflammation which made me almost crazy with pain. When I showed my foot to my friends they would get really frightened. I did not know what to do. I was so sick and had become so nervous that I positively lost all hope.

"I had seen the advertisement of the Cuticura Remedies a great many times, but could not make up my mind to buy them, for I had already used so many medicines. Finally I did decide to use the Cuticura Remedies and I tell you that I was never so pleased as when I noticed that, after having used two sets of Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Pills, the entire inflammation had gone. I was completely cured. I should be only too glad if people with similar disease would come to me and find out the truth. I would only recommend them to use Cuticura. Mrs. Bertha Sachs, 1621 Second Ave., New York, N. Y., Aug. 20, 1909."

"Mrs. Bertha Sachs is my sister-in-law and I know well how she suffered and was cured by Cuticura Remedies after many other treatments failed. Morris Sachs, 321 E. 9th St., New York, N. Y., Secretary of Deutsch-Ostrower Unt-Verein, Kempner Hebrew Benevolent Society, etc."

Managing a Husband. Men are like children; they want, managing, although you must never let them dream that you think so. No child likes to be ordered about, no man will endure coercion. But managing! It is an art so subtle, so elusive, that few women understand even the rudiments of it. Sisters mine, let us reason together, says Woman's Life. In every human being there is a spark of the divine; it is yours to fan that spark into a flame—that is managing a man—it is to get the very best out of him there is to have, and not two women in ten can do it.

Do not think that there is anything unworthy in managing a man—to bring out the best in a high vocation. Only let us see to it that we are worthy of it. There are women who have made angels of men, but at the cost of their own divinity. There is room for more than one unselfish person in a family.

Editorial Favor. "A month ago you rejected a story of mine." "I remember. Thought it was rotten." "I had offered it for $7, and you turned it down." "So I did."

"Well, I sold that story for $40. Yours another story. May I ask the favor of one more rejection? It seems to help."

A Kansas woman wants a divorce because her husband throws bricks at her. No man has a right to throw anything at his wife but bouquets and hot air.

DIETZ SURRENDERS AFTER KILLING ONE

Wisconsin Outlaw Holds Cabin Against Force of Officers Until Storm of Bullets Forces Him to Send Out Daughter with White Flag--- Cabin Shot Full of Holes---Weakens as Wife Collapses.

Winter, Wis.—John H. Dietz, wounded and weakened from loss of blood, but securely handcuffed nevertheless to a special deputy sheriff nearly twice his size, was brought to Winter Saturday night under armed guard.

It was a funeral procession as well as a march of triumph that wended its way slowly through the eight miles of dense woods between this village and the bullet riddled homestead from which the outlaw of Cameron dam and his family were dragged after six hours of fierce fighting.

Last in the line of march four stalwart deputies bore aloft the sheeted form of Oscar Harp, their former comrade, who was found shot dead on the hill back of the Dietz cabin when the battle was over. Stumbling along beside the body was Chet Colfatch, whose right ear was shot off in the fight. William Rankin, a deputy, also was shot in the ear.

Mrs. Dietz Expects the Worst.

Although Dietz surrendered at 3:20 o'clock in the afternoon his captors did not reach here with him until a late hour at night. This slow progress was due in part to the delay occasioned in starting from the homestead with the entire family, and in greater part to the fact that Mrs. Dietz, expecting a visit from the store in the near future, was so wrought up that fast travel was impossible for her.

In fact, it was his wife's delicate condition and partial collapse during the battle that forced Dietz to send his younger daughter into the clearing in front of the cabin with a flag of surrender.

A number of the men who remained in Winter while the fighting was going on made wild threats of lynching Dietz. Although little fear was felt that they would attempt to molest Sheriff Madden's prisoner, the saloons were ordered closed, and precautions were taken to check any disorder the minute it started.

Sheriff Madden took John and Leslie Dietz to Haywood, the county seat, in an auto soon after the party reached Winter.

Buildings Are Riddled.

Dietz did not surrender until his cabin and every other building in his clearing had been riddled with bullets. For six hours and five minutes every volley fired by the attacking forces was replied to vigorously from the loopholed wall of the cabin, and Mrs. Dietz says her husband fired every shot that was directed at the deputies. In spite of her declaration, her second son, Leslie, who was at his father's side during most of the fight, is a prisoner and is as securely handcuffed as his parent.

When the officers had been convinced that the appearance of Helen Dietz in the clearing with a white flag was not a ruse they went to the cabin and beheld a remarkable sight.

Almost every inch of the floor was covered with flattened, twisted bits of lead that had been bullets until they tore through the cabin walls, knocking off splinters from the inside and falling harmlessly to the floor.

Mrs. Dietz Sees at Surrender.

Sobbing on a chair in one corner of the room, with an apron thrown over her head, sat Mrs. Dietz, while Leslie sat on a chair across from her, scowling savagely but making no attempt to resist the officers' entrance. The youngest son, John, Jr., was called up from the cellar, where he had been hidden from the bullets.

"I don't know how I ever lived through it," sobbed Mrs. Dietz. "It was terrible. I sat through it all in a corner of the sitting room with Helen, and we did not move during it all. I did not fire a shot, nor did the children. If I hadn't argued and argued with John we all would have been dead before tomorrow morning."

Dietz himself was so weak he could not stand. He had been shot in the hand, but had kept on shooting his repeating rifle and automatic pistols until the threatened collapse of his wife brought him to a realization that his was at best a losing fight.

Air in Cabin Full of Smoke.

More than 1,000 shots had been fired into the house by the 100 picked sharpshooters who made up Sheriff Madden's posse. There is no telling how many times Dietz had replied, but the floor of the cabin was littered with empty rifle and revolver shells.

The first shot in the battle was fired at 9:45 o'clock Saturday morning. At that time Leslie Dietz was out in the clearing after the cows. He was about an eighth of a mile from the cabin and each step was bringing him closer to a horseshoe shaped breastwork of stone built by the older Dietz during his trouble with the lumber companies four years ago.

In this breastwork, which Dietz calls his "stronghold," Deputy Jack Britton was concealed, having crawled to it before daybreak from the woods a hundred yards or so in the rear. In these woods, along the edge of the clearing, a score or more deputies covered Britton's position.

At the time Leslie Dietz was out after the cows the other members of the family were busy at their usual morning tasks. Dietz and his wife were in the cabin when the firing started, but their daughter, Helen, was starting to help Leslie round up the cows.

As Helen approached her brother, Deputy Britton called upon the latter to surrender. Leslie made no reply, but turned toward the house and ran as fast as he could. Britton fired at him, and then four other deputies, the Rankin brothers, Con. Hollon and J. T. Campbell, jumped up a hundred yards in the rear and also fired.

Leslie continued to run, unhurt by any of the bullets, while Helen sought refuge in the barn.

When Leslie reached the shelter of the barn he turned and fired three shots from his revolver at Britton, without effect. He then made his way to the house safely.

After that there was no cessation in the firing on either side.

History of Dietz Battle.

John F. Dietz came into the limelight years ago when he defended Cameron dam on Thorapella river against one of the largest companies in the state. He claimed the dam was on his property and fled several winters' cuts of logs, valued at thousands of dollars, refusing to allow them to pass the dam without paying toll.

He was fought in the courts by the lumber company, but defied the order of judges and held out at the point of a gun all officers who attempted to serve papers upon him.

Dietz won. The lumber company paid him a large sum and he allowed the logs to go through.

The sheriff deputized men from all over the state to make the arrest of Dietz, and several were shot in fights. In one engagement Dietz's son was shot in the head, but recovered.

Makes Self-Defense Claim.

The latest controversy between Dietz and the authorities of Sawyer county dates from September 6, when Dietz shot and seriously wounded Bert Horro in Winter, Wis., in a wrangle. It is said, over rent due on a schoolhouse.

Dietz first quarreled with C. G. O'Hare, president of the Winter school board. It is said, and Horro, taking O'Hare's part, struck Dietz. Dietz then shot and has since claimed it was in self-defense.

Since the shooting Dietz has defied the sheriff to serve a warrant on him. In all there were eight indictments against Dietz, and nearly as many against his son Leslie. Many times deputy sheriffs have met Dietz and talked with him, but none dared serve the papers they had in their pockets.

Feared for Wife and Babies.

With Father Pilon and Deputy Sheriff Thorbahn, when they went into the cabin to arrest Dietz, were a number of newspaper men.

Dietz submitted to arrest quietly, saying: "I could not hold out any longer with myself and Leslie crippled. The bullets came so fast it looked like the wife and babies would get it, too."

Dietz' left hand was in a sling and he was smiling and spoke cheerfully to the newspaper men. He posed for several pictures with the sheriff, in one of which he was shaking hands with the official.

"Why didn't you give in when assured of a fair trial by the attorney general?" a reporter asked.

"They kept on changing their plans," he replied, "and I did not know what I could depend upon. Besides, we thought we could have lasted it out, and we could have but for the little baby we expect."

Canalejas Warns Spain.

Madrid.—Premier Canalejas, in addressing the chamber, Saturday, warned the deputies that manifestations of Catholics on the one hand and workmen on the other would develop exaltation of civil war. He condemned the attitude of the Catholics as turbulent and lawless, and for proof of this assertion read extracts from sermons and speeches of prelates and prominent reactionaries in which they declared that Canalejas was an infidel and a coward.

WHY NEW ORLEANS

CITY IS LOGICAL POINT FOR WORLD'S PANAMA EXPOSITION.

Its Geographical Position and Many Other Considerations Mark It as Most Suitable Spot for Dedication of Great Work.

Public sentiment has decided that the completion of the Panama Canal in 1915 shall be celebrated with a great International Exposition in which all the nations of the world may participate; and the question of where this Exposition is to be held will be settled by Congress at its approaching session.

New Orleans and San Francisco are contesting for the honor of holding this Exposition, and both cities have guaranteed immense sums of money as an evidence of their ability to finance so great an enterprise.

An Exposition worthy of the term "World's Fair," such as New Orleans proposes to build, will be a great educational movement. Its success as such, however, will depend entirely upon the percentage of our population who can secure its educational advantages, this in turn, depends upon its location, as the time in traveling to and from the Exposition, and the cost in railroad and Pullman fares, are the most important factors.

Considering these matters, New Orleans' claims to being the "Logical Point" for this Panama Exposition, seem to be fully substantiated by the following facts:—

New Orleans is 500 miles from the center of population in the United States. San Francisco is 2,600 miles distant therefrom.

Within a radius of 500 miles from New Orleans there are 17,500,000 people. Within the same radius from San Francisco there are only 2,000,000.

Within a radius of 1,000 miles from New Orleans, there are 65,000,000. Within the same radius from San Francisco there are only 6,000,000.

At an average of 900 miles from New Orleans, there are 70 of our principal cities with a combined population of 20,000,000. Averaging 900 miles from San Francisco there are only 8 large cities, with a combined population of just 1,000,000.

The average distance of all these cities to New Orleans is 792 miles, to San Francisco 2,407 miles.

Over 75 per cent. of the people of the United States could go to an Exposition there at an average expense for railroad fare of $12.50, as against an average of $37.50 to the Pacific Coast; and for several millions of our people, the Pullman fare and Dining Car expenses alone, for a trip to San Francisco, would amount to more than all their transportation expenses for a trip to New Orleans.

This is an important public question to be settled by Congress at the session which convenes in December.

Many of our readers will wish to visit this World's Panama Exposition, and it held in New Orleans a great many more could spare the time and money for the trip than could go to San Francisco. Therefore, we urge our readers to write to the two senators from this State and the congressman from this district, requesting them to support New Orleans in the contest.

Mrs. Briggs' Speech.

It briefly is the soul of wit, one of the wittiest speeches on record was made by a woman. Mrs. Briggs lived in the northern part of Indiana, a long distance from any village. Hearing that the Rev. Mr. Goodwin was to preach in a township some twenty miles distant, she resolved to be present, and as no other way offered, she walked the twenty miles.

The pastor heard of this and was so pleased at the appreciation which it showed that at the close of the sermon he mentioned the fact to the congregation, and called upon Mrs. Briggs to tell them how she came.

Rising slowly, she looked over the audience with great solemnity, and said:

"I hooted it."

Then she sat down again.—Youth's Companion.

Queer Questions.

Queer questions come over the telephone to the newspaper offices. Here was one that the man who chanced to answer the phone had put up to him the other day:

"Say," began the unknown seeker after the truth, "do you—do you remember who it was that killed Abel?"

"Why, Cain, of course," replied the newspaper man, who put in several years at Sunday school. "Who'd you suppose?"

"Well," observed the man at the other end in a mangled tone, "doggon if I ain't gone and made a fool of myself. Course it was Cain, now that you mention it, but I made a two to one bet with a fellow that 'twas Goliath, and now I'll have to go without a new overcoat, I reckon this next winter."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Temporary Heat Quickly

Did you ever stop to think of the many ways in which a perfect oil heater is of value? If you want to sleep with your window open in winter, you can get sufficient heat from an oil heater while you undress at night, and then turn it off. Apply a match in the morning, when you get out of bed, and you have heat while you dress.

Those who have to eat an early breakfast before the stove is radiating heat can get immediate warmth from an oil heater, and then turn it off.

The girl who practices on the piano in a cold room in the morning can have warmth from an oil heater while she plays, and then turn it off.

The member of the family who has to walk the floor on a cold winter's night with a restless baby can get temporary heat with an oil heater, and then turn it off. The

MRS. MATILDA JAMIESON

Matilda Weaver was born Aug. 11, 1832, at Camillus, N. Y., and died at Millburn Oct. 3, 1910. In 1844 she came west with her parents who settled in Kenosha county, Wis., where she grew to womanhood. She was united in marriage to John S. Jamieson Sept. 25, 1857. In 1867 she moved with her family to a farm near Libertyville and later to Libertyville village where she continued to reside until the death of her husband March 12, 1907. Since that time she had made her home with her two sons, dividing her time between them. Her health had been failing for a few months and after a brief illness she passed peacefully to rest. She leaves three children, Dr. Homer E. Jamieson, Mrs. Florence M. Seavey of Kansas and George Jamieson of Cherry Valley, Ill., all of whom were present to care for her during her last illness. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. A. W. Safford, interment being made in Lake-side cemetery at Libertyville. Mrs. Jamieson was a woman of noble character and was held in high esteem by all who knew her.

International Peace No Dream.

It is a testimonial to the vitality of the peace idea that it should appear with undiminished vigor after every disappointment and every setback. Where ten years ago a solitary—and strangely incongruous—voice for disarmament spoke up in the czar's palace, today the limitation of armaments is a subject of thought and discussion in every chancellery of Europe. It is in the permanency and universality of the interest which now attaches to the subject of international peace that we find the clearest indication of its strength. It no longer manifests itself in isolated congresses, dealing specifically with peace. It breaks out in sovereigns' meetings, ministerial conferences, scientific congresses, labor congresses, and socialist congresses. If international peace is indeed a dream, it is being dreamt so persistently and so widely as to take on for practical purposes the aspect of reality.—New York Post.

The Fisherman's Test.

"How do you know," this man asked of the man hauling on the seine, "whether the fishes you catch are up to the limit fixed by the law? Have to put a tape line on some of them?" "Well, no," said the fisherman, "we don't exactly have to go to that trouble. We have an easier way of measuring them than that."

"Every fisherman has sawed in the seat of the boat little notches of the right distance apart to indicate the lawful length at which fish may be taken, and when he takes out of the net a fish that doesn't look much too long he lays its nose against one of these notches and its tail against the other."

"If it touches the notches, why, into the basket goes the fish; but if it doesn't, why, then the fish goes overboard."

Automatic Steering Device.

A Scottish mariner claims to have invented an automatic steering device, operated by electricity from a compass, to hold a vessel in a determined course, but permitting the helm to be moved in the ordinary way when necessary.

RUSSELL

William Shearer and family will move to Kenosha on Monday.

Mrs. G. P. McNamara is entertaining her mother, Mrs. Godfrey, of Grayslake.

Mrs. I. L. Siver will entertain the Oak Dale Cemetery society on Thursday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Crawford, also Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Edwards spent Sunday at Kenosha.

William Penders is very sick at his home west of this place. We hope to hear of his recovery soon.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Newell of Zion City took Mr. and Mrs. George DeForis also T. D. Newell in their automobile to Millburn on Sunday.

Charles Perry will hold an auction in the near future, he having to step work on account of ill health. He and his family will go to southern Florida for the winter.

The funeral of Mrs. Andrew Smith was held on Sunday at the Pikeville church and the remains were taken to Pikeville for burial, that being their old home. Mrs. Smith died on Friday night at her home in Russell after a long illness from cancer of the stomach. She left only her husband to mourn her loss. Their many friends extend sympathy.

Saturday afternoon a gasoline stove exploded at the home of George Landry and did a great deal of damage. Mrs. Landry was near the stove at the time of the explosion and received some very severe burns. Her hands and arms were burned to the elbows and it also burned her face and hair. Dr. Warriner was called from Antioch and relieved her of some of the terrible pain. Help came from every direction and saved the house from destruction.

Kills A Murderer.

A merciless murderer is appendicitis with many victims. But Dr. King's New Life Pills kill it by prevention. They gently stimulate the stomach liver and bowels, preventing that clogging that invites appendicitis, curling constipation, headache, biliousness, and chills. 25 cents at Swan's drug store.

Curiosities of Smell.

No substance that refuses to dissolve in water has an odor. It is the actual substance itself, floating in particles in the air, that appeals to the nose, and not simply a vibration of the air, as in the case of light and sound. The damper a thing is, the more powerful the odor it gives out. A pleasant proof of the fact can be had by walking in a garden after rain. There is no end to the curiosities of smell. It is, for instance, the vapor of a liquid that smells, and not the liquid in the mass itself. If eau de cologne be poured into the nostril the nose refuses to recognize any odor there at all.

Masterpieces and Poverty.

Poverty produces masterpieces, but wealth smother them. You would be able to count on your fingers all the masterpieces produced by rich people.

Forced To Leave Home.

Every year a large number of poor sufferers whose lungs are sore and racked with coughs are urged to go to another climate. But this is costly and not always sure. There's a better way. Let Dr. King's New Discovery cure you at home. "It cured me of lung trouble," writes W. B. Nelson, of Calamine, Ark., "when all else failed and I gained 47 pounds in weight. Its surely the King of all cough and lung cures." Thousands owe their lives and health to it. Its positively guaranteed for coughs, colds, grippe, asthma, croup—all throat and lung troubles, 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free at J. H. Swans.
